FRID Y EVENING, OCT. 6 1899

A Mortgaged Bride. When a Chinaman falls in love, he can be just as sharp and full of gulle as the "Melican man." Chow Sam Lung, therefore, when he looked upon little Ah Moy and saw that she was beautiful and young, at once fell down and worshiped, figuratively speaking, and began to investigate as to his chances of making her his wife.

Now, Chow Sam Lung was young himself and a very successful gambler by profession, being the keeper of a gambling house in San Francisco. But the cruel parents of Ah Moy had promised her to old man Low How for his fourth wife and would not retract their promise. Did Chow Sam Lung sit down and bewail his lot? Not at all. He at once made her father's acquaintance, and, beguiling him into his gambling place, proceeded to let him play and win. Then he played and lost. And Chow Sam Lung said: "No matter, you are my friend. I will trust you."

After awhile the old man owed Chow Sam Lung $1,400. Now, old man Low How was to give Ah Moy's father $1,000 on her wedding day, but when New Year's came, and every Chinaman must pay his debts before he can paste his prayer in the josshouse, Ah Moy's dad was short and failed to raise the $1,400. So Chow Sam Lung, who had previously taken a mortgage on the girl, promptly foreclosed it and took her to his home in the very face of old man Low How. And that's what happened in San Francisco Chinatown. And Ah Moy was very muchee happy.—San Francisco Call.

Airiean Pocket Handkerchief. I must not forget one particular, unique of its kind, of the most simplified tollet of the Barotsi, the pocket handkerchief. This consists of a thin blade of iron, finely wrought, with the handle of the same material. The whole is perhaps four or five inches long by one or two inches wide, and is hung round the neck by vegetable fibers or tendons. In blowing their noses they use it as a spring with extreme dexterity, which I can say from experience is not a pleasant thing at a camp fire.-"The Kingdom of the Barotsi."

The Baby's Present. Mrs. Lash-What did you get baby for a birthday present?

Mrs. Rash-I took $4.99 out of the little darling's bank and bought him this levely lamp for the drawing room.
